

Ken Wilson Meats - Sales and Chiller Coordinator

Are you a qualified butcher or experienced in the meat industry and looking for a role that gets you off the tools and into a more commercial, customer-focused position?

Ken Wilson Meats is a well-established, customer focussed meat company supplying quality products & delivering personalised service across New Zealand.

We're looking for a practical, motivated person to join our team in a hands-on role that combines sales support, carcass mark-up, quality control and logistics coordination.

This is an ideal opportunity for someone from a butchery or meat processing background who understands carcass quality and yields, and is ready to step into a more varied, commercially focused position.

This is a full-time role Monday to Friday with a competitive salary based on experience.

What the role involves

- Marking up beef, lamb carcasses and offal's to meet specific customer requirements.
- Ordering stocks from suppliers for customer orders.
- Making daily outbound calls to regular customers to take orders, maintain relationships, and proactively upsell available products and specials.
- Carrying out quality control activities, including monitoring boning room yield reports, undertaking hands-on inspections,
- Accurately entering product information into company systems, including placing customer orders, recording carcass weights, and maintaining up-to-date stock and sales data.
- Coordinating daily load-outs, preparing and managing manifests, and organising logistics to ensure products are dispatched accurately and delivered on time.

What we're looking for

- Butchery or meat industry experience is essential
- Strong understanding of quality meat and interpreting customer specifications
- Confident communicating with customers and team members
- Comfortable using computer systems and entering data
- Organised, reliable and able to manage a fast-paced workload
- A practical, hands-on approach and good attention to detail

If you're ready to put your meat knowledge to good use then we'd love to hear from you.
